Engineers Asked to Prepare the Estimates Needed.

URGED BY HEALTH OFFICER

Dr. Woodward Believes Present Structure Is Inadequate—Plans a Palatial Home.

District Commissioner Macfarland today approved the request of Health Officer Woodward that the Engineer Department be instructed to prepare estimates showing what it would cost to construct a stable and dog pound to take the place of the present pound, which is inadequate for the pound service.

According to Dr. Woodward's outline of the kind of building he desires erected, the impounded dogs will be given palatial quarters.

The proposed stable and pound should be arranged around a central court or driveway, in order to come up to the desires of the Health Officer.

Rooms for Dogs.

At the entrance to the driveway, the poundmaster's office should be located, and back of this will be a lounging room for the employees at the pound when off duty. Next to this, six apartments, measuring eight feet square, will be located for the lodging places of the impounded dogs.

These little rooms will be properly protected from the weather, and will have floors of vitrified brick. Behind these will be the room and gas box used for killing unredeemed dogs.

With the Cows.

The building will be concluded with stalls for impounded cows and horses, and two close stalls for quarantined horses. The plans for the building and the estimate of its cost will be prepared by the Engineer Department as soon as possible.

Dr. Woodward asked for this estimate prior to submitting the estimates of the expenses of his department for the fiscal year 1905-1906. This expense will be included in the lump estimates.

SUES FORMER LANDLADY FOR AN ALLEGED BEATING

Mrs. Mary A. Webers, through her attorneys, William H. Ambrose and Charles H. Merrill, has filed suit in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia against Mrs. Nellie Smith to recover $6,000 as damages for an assault alleged to have been committed on her by Mrs. Smith, June 25. Mrs. Smith is sued in respect to her sole and separate estate, as the new law does not make her husband a party to the suit.

It is stated that Mrs. Smith, who lives on New York Avenue, between Twelfth and Thirteenth Streets northwest, has property in her own right.

It is charged that Mrs. Smith became angered at the plaintiff, who lived in her house, and ran upstairs, seized her, dragged and threw her downstairs, and then severely beat her, inflicting injuries so serious she had to go to a hospital.

Johnson Now Thinks Philadelphia Not Slow

Washingtonian's Thirst Led Him Into Confab With "Night Hawk"—Police Searching for Missing Property.

Never again will Lewis Johnson, living at 1408 Fifteenth Street, drink from a stranger's bottle without first diligently inquiring after the character of the man, and the motives accentuating the offer.

Mr. Johnson took a train leaving Washington at 12:30 o'clock Sunday night, intending to spend ten days in Atlantic City. He says he very rarely drinks, and never to excess, but when he arrived in Philadelphia he was overcome by an unquenchable thirst.

Discovering a "night hawk" near Broad Street station, he offered him a dollar to procure a half pint of cocktails, and in a few minutes he was supplied.

"Such an obliging gentleman," murmured Johnson, as he took a long pull at the bottle, and luxuriously sank back in the cab, giving orders to drive to the Market Street ferry.

Alas, poor Lewis! He was soon overcome by a delicious languor which settled into a deep sleep. Before taking that dram he had in his possession $90 in cash, a watch valued at $50, a twelve-pennyweight gold ring set with a large carbuncle, and numerous other small articles of value. He awoke some hours later, to find himself stretched out on some railroad ties along a new road which is being built and is called Delaware Avenue, and possessing nothing but his clothes and a splitting headache—he had been drugged.

After telegraphing for funds he took the next train for Washington, arriving yesterday morning with a very poor opinion of humanity in general and particularly "night hawks."

No trace of the cabman has yet been found, but Johnson thinks he will soon be located.

"Of course I'd recognize him," said Johnson this morning. "I'd just like to see him again!"

This sentiment is also prevalent at the police headquarters in Philadelphia.

BOY WHO WENT ON SPREE RELEASED BY THE JUDGE

The case of Raymon Fussell, fifteen years old, who was brought into the First precinct police station at 3 a. m. on Sunday in an intoxicated condition, was heard in the juvenile court. The boy had left home to spend the night with a friend and celebrated Saturday night south of Pennsylvania Avenue. When the police searched him they found a baby revolver, about two inches long, the six chambers of which were loaded with .22-caliber "shorts." Justice O'Neal released the boy on his personal bonds.

The Metrostyle Pianola

In offering as the first prize in this contest the choice of a Pianola or Piano, The Times contributes an item of interest to both those who have and those who do not possess a piano. Any one possessing a piano will be pleased to win the self-playing attachment, as it will enable everybody in the house to play for himself or herself. The Pianola offered by The Times is equal in value to a piano, so if the winner prefers he can have a first-class instrument. The Metrostyle Pianola, sold by Sanders & Stayman, is perfection in the art of self-playing instrument making. It operates with the same expression as the most skilled pianist gets from a piano, and is so simple that any one in the household can operate it.
